There are many qualitative sampling approaches proposed by Patton (1990) and others, however, we will only focus on four of these which are commonly used. We do not have time to get into others, but you can investigate them outside of this training.

The evaluation process

Patton (1990) points out that these are not "absolute characteristics of qualitative inquiry, but rather strategic ideals that provide a direction and a framework for developing specific designs and concrete data collection tactics" (p. 59). These characteristics are considered to be "interconnected" (Patton, 1990, p.
