Audi A6 Engine Fault

The Audi only had one previous owner and the mileage of the car was around 170,000 – a high figure, but not something that should have caused an issue in this case. In the workshop we had to consider all the factors that could be responsible for the low pressure generation, such as: fuel supply, a blocked fuel filter, excessive leak across the injectors, a faulty pressure regulator or faulty pressure pump.

Audi A6 P2279 Possible Solution : The crankshaft sensor signals the fuel injection computer or the ignition control when the cylinders are firing. This causes the ignition coil to provide a spark and the injector to inject fuel into each cylinder at the right time. If either sensor isn't working correctly, the car will run rough and the engine will be less efficient.
