Principles Of Christian Theology

The first edition of John Macquarrie's 'Principles of Christian Theology' was published in 1966; one of my systematic theology professors, who retired last year, told me this was a text he used when he was in graduate school, because at that time it was about the only contemporary text on theology that approached the subject from a broadly drawn but systematic approach, most others either being denominationally driven, or being the source texts (Calvin's 'Institutes', etc.).

The Bible itself reveals those doctrines that are essential to the Christian faith. They are 1) the Deity of Christ, 2) Salvation by Grace, 3) Resurrection of Christ, 4) the gospel, and 5) monotheism. These are the doctrines the Bible says are necessary. Though there are many other important doctrines, these five are the ones that are declared by Scripture to be essential (I call them primary essentials since the Bible declares them as essential).

Essential Doctrines of Christianity | CARM.org

"Principles of Christian Theology" is arguably his masterwork, a systematic theology in three parts, first published in 1966. Part One is a consideration of the need for a philosophical theology, in which he discusses human existence, revelation, God, theological language and a topology of religions.

Principles of Christian Theology: Revised Edition: Amazon ...

1. Theology as Worship: Theology is fundamentally about knowing God. After all, that's what the term means: the study of God. But we err when we think of this kind of knowing in purely cognitive terms, as though knowing God could be limited to some set of right statements we make about God.

4 Ways Theology Is Practical for Everyday Life - Christianity

The belief in total depravity takes the view that sinfulness pervades all areas of life and human existence. Through the Fall of Man, humanity is stained by sin in every aspect: heart, emotions, will, mind, and body. This means people cannot independently choose God. They cannot save themselves.
