Shields's mother and a photographer were involved in a legal dispute in the 80's in regards to photographs taken of Brooke. These photos were meant to appear in a book called Sugar and Spice, but this was not the case in the end, and the legal battle was to do with the rights to these photographs since Brooke was a minor at the time. The courts ruled in favor of the photographer, yet if Brooke was considered as a child performer rather than a model, her mother would have won.

Brooke Shields: Her Relationships & Life Uncovered

The most surprising detail to emerge after Hefner's death was that Brooke Shields had featured in a Playboy publication called Sugar and Spice when aged only 10 years old in 1975. Photographer Gary Grosse received $450 to take the photographs of the heavily made-up Shields posing naked in a bathtub.

Shields's mother and a photographer had a legal dispute back in the early 80's. The two could not settle the rights to some photographs her mother had signed away, which was especially problematic considering Brooke was a minor. The photos were meant to appear in a book called Sugar and Spice, but the litigation postponed its publication. Eventually, the courts ruled in favor of Gross.
