Archaeologies of Touch is lucid, scrupulous, rigorously grounded, and exceedingly informed without ever getting mired in high theory or inconsequential historical asides. If there is a flaw in the project, it is that the “haptic subject” that Parisi ultimately reveals remains so scattered and incomplete and largely underwhelming in its cultural effect.

The idea animating Archaeologies of Touch emerged at the inter-section of two collisions. The first collision took place on December 27, 1990, when my sister —five years old at the time —was involved in a car accident that fractured her spine. The resulting swelling compacted a portion of her spinal column, leaving her paralyzed
