doesn't emphasize the deeper regions of the sub-bass, which I suspect would turn the Veloster into a rattle trap.

Impedance of Car Speakers . In car audio, 4-ohm speakers are the norm. That's because car audio systems run on 12 volts DC instead of a 120 volts AC. A 4-ohm impedance allows car audio speakers to pull more power from a low-voltage car audio amp. Car audio amps are designed for use with low-impedance speakers. So crank it up and enjoy.
