Santi Tafarella September 20, 2015 at 10:16 AM. The idea of "the relativist" is the ghost-bird that stands-in for a multitude of right-wing ambivalences; it gives diverse anxieties a single target. Anxiety about "the relativist" is invariably an anxiety about evolution, variation overthrowing essences, and diversity.

Edward Feser: The absolute truth about relativism

If one says, "all truth is relative" one must admit that one is stating a relative truth, not an absolute truth. This means that there must be situations in which the statement is not true. So there must be situations in which some truth is absolute. This makes the statement self-contradictory. To explain: it would be paradoxical to say, "all truth is relative and no truth is absolute".

Relativism is a family of philosophical views which deny claims to objectivity within a particular domain and assert that facts in that domain are relative to the perspective of an observer or the context in which they are assessed. There are many different forms of relativism, with a great deal of variation in scope and differing degrees of controversy among them. Moral relativism encompasses the differences in moral judgments among people and cultures. Epistemic relativism holds that there are

Relativism - Wikipedia

First of all, the relativist is declaring there are absolutely no absolutes. That is an absolute statement. The statement is logically contradictory. If the statement is true, there is, in fact, an absolute - there are absolutely no absolutes. "Truth is relative." Again, this is an absolute statement implying truth is absolutely relative. Besides positing an absolute, suppose the statement was true and "truth is relative."

Relativism is the philosophical position that all points of view are equally valid and that all truth is relative to the individual. This means that all moral positions, all religious systems, all art forms, all political movements, etc., are truths that are relative to the individual. Under the umbrella of relativism, whole groups of perspectives are categorized.

What is relativism? | CARM.org

Relative truth means there is no such thing as absolute truths that transcend personal belief, and anything that a person believes is true even if their "truth" contradicts with demonstratable facts. This belief in relative truths is called Relativism. The opposite of Relativism is Absolutism.

/truth-relative-or-absolute - ChristopherJethro.com

Relativism is a logical conclusion if man is the measure of truth and God does not exist. However, the evidence indicates we live in a theistic universe. In a theistic universe, God whose nature is truth, created a universe built on His truth that He communicates to His created beings. Secondly, relativism is a self-defeating position.
