Enterprise Business Intelligence and Data Warehousing ...

Business intelligence (BI) combines business analytics, data mining, data visualization, data tools and infrastructure, and best practices to help organizations to make more data-driven decisions. In practice, you know you've got modern business intelligence when you have a comprehensive view of your organization's data and use that data to drive change, eliminate inefficiencies, and quickly adapt to market or supply changes.

Business intelligence: what it is and why it matters

This is where business intelligence at the enterprise level comes in. Previously, ETL design and implementation for the data warehouse was ignored by various organizations but slowly they started adopting a modern approach to handle the data mining, analytics, optimization and reporting.

Today's complex digital business environment is even more dependent on analytics for critical decisions and actions. Business intelligence and analytics (BI&A) is a top organizational priority, as data allows smart companies to quickly assess market conditions and outperform competitors. However by 2020, only 50 percent of chief analytics officers (CAOs) will have successfully created a narrative to respond to rapid change and link financial objectives to BI&A initiatives and investments.
