This was the beginning of more than 40 years of conflict between the US and the Soviet Union, even though the situation never evolved into direct warfare between the two superpowers (hence the term 'Cold War'). The Cold War was especially characterized by the looming threat of global nuclear war, since the Soviet Union succeeded in developing nuclear weapons in 1949, and the US had had access to them since WW2. Both superpowers were aware that the consequences of such a nuclear war would be ...

The Korean War has often been called America’s “forgotten war” because the United States made no significant territorial or political gains during the war. Despite the fact that tens of thousands of Americans died, the war both began and ended with the Korean Peninsula divided at the 38 th parallel.

Nevertheless, the Korean War helped define the Cold War, established a precedent for keeping peripheral wars limited, and boosted defense spending that contributed to the postwar economic ...
