Democracy and Governance | MSI

Democratic decentralization is the process of devolving the functions and resources of the state from the centre to the elected representatives at the lower levels so as to facilitate greater direct participation of citizens in governance. Devolution, envisioned by the Constitution, is not mere delegation.

Democratic Decentralisation in India - Drishti IAS

According to one definition:

"Decentralization, or decentralizing governance, refers to the restructuring or reorganization of authority so that there is a system of co-responsibility between institutions of governance at the central, regional and local levels according to the principle of subsidiarity, thus increasing the overall quality and effectiveness of the system of governance while increasing the authority and capacities of sub-national levels."

Decentralization - Wikipedia

On the one hand it is undoubtedly part of the state, but on the other hand it can appear as a relatively autonomous sphere of government that is close to if not part of civil society. As such, achieving effective local governance is crucial to the project of democratic decentralisation.
