Christ is “the first and the last” with reference to the gospel system as well. The writer of Hebrews characterizes the Lord as “the author” (archegos – the beginner, the leader) and “the finisher” (teleiotes – one who brings to completion) of “the faith” (12:2).

In the context of the passage, the phrase “the first will be last and the last will be first” does not mean one person gains more honor than another. It means that while a person may be first in this life with honor or wealth, that does not hold true in God’s kingdom. Salvation or eternal life is not earned by one’s status in this life.

first and last Under all circumstances, always, as in She was an artist first and last. (For a synonym, see above all.) This expression, first recorded in 1589, should not be confused with the similar-sounding from first to last, which means "from start to finish" or "throughout," as in We cheered them on from first to last.
