Bradshaw Guide To Railways

Bradshaw's was a series of railway timetables and travel guide books published by W.J. Adams and later Henry Blacklock, both of London. They are named after founder George Bradshaw, who produced his first timetable in October 1839. Although Bradshaw died in 1853, the range of titles bearing his name continued to expand for the remainder of the 19th and early part of the 20th century, covering at various times Continental Europe, India, Australia and New Zealand, as well as parts of the Middle-East.

Bradshaw's Guide was the title employed on BBC TV in 2010 for a book containing four issues of Bradshaw's Handbook for Railway Tourists, bound especially for the series. The Book covers Great Britain plus all of Ireland and describes the main features and historic buildings of the principle towns. Very few of the original copies were bound in this manner and those that survive in the academic libraries are in their original form, convenient as a traveller's handbook for the Mackintosh pocket.
