For LTE cells, the eNB antenna is 45mtall in rural areas and 30mtall in urban areas. Typically eNBs (or sites) in a macrocellular deployment are placed on a hexagonal grid with an intersite distance of  $3 \times R$ , where  $R = 500$  m is the cell radius. Each eNB has three sectors with an antenna placed at each sector. In a multioperator cellular layout, identical cell layouts for each network shall be applied, with second network sites located at first network cell edges [13].
