High Rise Solutions is an evolution of the thinking behind Mace's 'Jump Factory', used to deliver Get Living's project at Victory Plaza, East Village. The method combines digital technology with a new offsite manufacturing approach to construct buildings faster, safer and to a higher quality.

Mace unveils 'next generation' construction method

Construction technology is still a heavily fragmented, point-solutions-driven market with ample opportunity for integration plays that create either new platforms or attractive component acquisition targets for growing incumbent platforms. This fragmentation is more evident when analyzing construction tech offerings across the project life cycle.
