We progressives generally agree with allowing faith to be personal and resist making any one religion's beliefs a matter of public policy. However, we have to admit that we also try to change public policy when we advocate for universal health care, equal human rights, and laws protecting our environment and even limiting predatory lending.

Faith is a personal and a public thing. It is the kind of thing that can be judged by the kind and quality of its fruit, which is why Jesus said, "By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another" (John 13:35). If love is absent, someone other than Jesus is being followed.
