Gas and electric central air conditioning systems all require the same equipment: a forced air delivery vehicle (usually a duct system), a furnace and an outdoor condenser unit. Both systems are interdependent on the furnace unit, which is fueled by gas, and the condenser, which is powered by electricity.

Outfitting your home with a GE Through the Wall Air Conditioner allows you to manage temperatures more efficiently than standard window air conditioners. The airtight seal between a wall-mounted AC's sleeve and the building provides a greater level of insulation, ensuring that the cool air it creates stays where you can appreciate it.
