Isotope Tracers in Metabolic Research: Principles and ...

Isotopic labeling is a technique used to track the passage of an isotope through a reaction, metabolic pathway, or cell. The reactant is 'labeled' by replacing specific atoms by their isotope.
 The reactant is then allowed to undergo the reaction. The position of the isotopes in the products is measured to determine the sequence the isotopic atom followed in the reaction or the cell's metabolic pathway. The nuclides used in isotopic labeling may be stable nuclides or radionuclides. In the latter

Isotopic labeling - Wikipedia

A stable isotope tracer is made by labelling a molecule (e.g., glucose, free fatty acid, or amino acids) with one or more atoms to make it distinct from the naturally occurring molecule (tracee) to allow its detection.

Stable Isotope Methodology - Research - Maastricht University

A metabolic isotope tracer is a molecule that is chemically and functionally identical to the naturally occurring molecule of interest (that is, tracee), and following the fate of the tracer provides information on the metabolism of the tracee. 1 A metabolic tracer can be a molecule labeled with a stable or radioactive isotope(s). However, potential adverse health effects of radioactivity in ...
