Kirchenkampf is a German term pertaining to the situation of the Christian churches in Germany during the Nazi period. Sometimes used ambiguously, the term may refer to one or more of the following different "church struggles": the internal dispute between the German Christians and the Confessing Church over control of the Protestant churches; the battle between the Nazi regime and the Protestant church bodies; and the battle between the Nazi regime and the Roman Catholic Church. When the Nazis

Kirchenkampf - Wikipedia

Both the Confessing Church and the "German Christians" remained part of the German Evangelical Church, and the result was a Kirchenkampf, or "church struggle" within German Protestantism—an ongoing debate and struggle for control between those who sought a "nazified" church, those who opposed it, and the so-called "neutral" church leaders whose priority was the avoidance both of church schism and any kind of conflict with the Nazi state.
