The mission of Art & Theology is to help the church rediscover its rich heritage in the visual, literary, and musical arts and to open it up to the activity of contemporary artists, whose giftings can enable us to see God in new and different ways. Art can enhance our spiritual perception, enrich our prayer lives, stimulate renewed engagement with the Bible, make us more empathetic, challenge our beliefs in a healthy way, and bring us into more intimate contact with the world.

About the Blog - Art & Theology

In Richard Viladesau's explanation, the communication of art is 'nonverbal, but... not for that reason pre-rational or pre-spiritual'. Art can actually be 'a way of thinking' theologically in and of itself, allowing us a qualitatively different understanding via image and symbol from the knowledge gained by ratiocination.

Art & Theology — Sarah Clarkson

Theology and the Arts explores, in a timely and engaging manner, several aspects of the relations between theology and
