Toward an Architecture. Vers une architecture, recently translated into English as Toward an Architecture but commonly known as Towards a New Architecture after the 1927 translation by Frederick Etchells, is a collection of essays written by Le Corbusier (Charles-Edouard Jeanneret), advocating for and exploring the concept of modern architecture. The book has had a lasting effect on the architectural profession, serving as the manifesto for a generation of architects, a subject of hatred for ...

Toward an Architecture - Wikipedia

Le Corbusier has such a powerful vision in 'Towards a New Architecture.'; When we take into consideration the traditional currents he was swimming against, it's even more impressive an achievement. The writing is pretty airy, allowing thoughts to navigate freely around "Rome is the damnation of the half-educated.

Towards a New Architecture by Le Corbusier

In 1923 he published his startling manifesto of what he called "the aesthetics of modern life," Vers une architecture (Towards a New Architecture). Le Corbusier worked first at simplifying and liberating house design through the revolutionary use of new materials---particularly, reinforced concrete---and new technical ideas for mass production, which he applied in the so-called Dom-Ino and the Citrohan House.
