Whether or not you use Jobber, getting your employees to text your clients when they're on their way, or to tell them that they're running late is both a dispatch and customer service best practice. The advantage of a software like Jobber is that your employees can send a prepared text message to a client through the Jobber app on their phones. You standardize the message, and your employees simply have to press a button to send an 'on my way' or 'running late' note to the client ...

Best Practices for Your Field Service Dispatch Process

Once the humane dispatch procedure has been performed, check for an eye reflex to make sure the animal is dead. Repeat the humane dispatch procedure if required. Touch the eye surface and look for a reflex-if none, the animal is dead or unconscious and nearly dead. The eyes will be open and appear glassy.
