Recent Developments in Person-Centred Therapy ...

Counselling is a helping approach that highlights the emotional and intellectual experience of a client: how a client is feeling and what they think about the problem they have sought help for. Psychotherapy, however, is based in the psychodynamic approach—it encourages the client to go back to their earlier experiences and explore how these experiences affect their current 'problem'.

What is Counselling? | SkillsYouNeed

The psychotherapy session encourages a person to go back to their earlier experiences. To explore how these impact on their current problem. A counsellor is less likely to refer to past experiences. Being generally trained in a humanistic approach using client-centred therapy.

What is expected from a counselling session?

Person-centred
 Therapy focuses on an individual's self-worth and values by providing a non-judgemental, genuine and respectful attitude towards the client. Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT) is a more proactive approach which concentrates on how thoughts and behaviour are interlinked. Long held beliefs are challenged and new skills are introduced during therapy to help minimise negative thinking patterns.
