you have a sub program in your machine that you use quite often and you don't want anyone messing with it. Don't forget when this parameter is set to stop you editing the programs you can't read them in and out either.

Well first check parameter 6080 thru 6089 Those specify what M code calls O9020 thru O9029 If one of those is not set to 6 then it is not expecting a macro.

Also if there is one, change it back to 0 and it will no longer need a macro, but you will have to program what would be in the macro in your normal program instead.
