Revelation: Toward a Christian Theology of God's Self ...
Abstract. Since the late 1980s the theme of God’s self-revelation has been treated only briefly in Christian theology, sometimes simply ignored, sometimes confused with biblical inspiration. This book aims to lay out its basic characteristics, and begins by distinguishing between revelation in the primary sense (a living encounter with God’s self-disclosure) and in the secondary sense (statements of faith derived from that encounter, or ‘propositional’ revelation).

Christian ethics - Wikipedia

From the Inside Flap. Christian theology, based on the historical revelation that God is the Creator of all things, assumes that we can know the truth, love the goodness, and delight in the beauty of all things because the Creator first knows and loves and delights in all creation. In Toward a Theology of Beauty, Father Navone explains that the Creator, Happiness Itself, knows truth and loves goodness and delights in beauty; consequently, whatever proceeds from the Creator?all creation?is ...
