Phyllis Lambert, Founding Director and Chair of the Board of Trustees of the Canadian Centre for Architecture noted, "“Faced with the imperative of intervening in the historic fabric of Italian cities, Carlo Scarpa (1906–78) devised a symbolic journey through time and space: uncovering the various layers of a building's past, rediscovering the power of its strongest elements, transforming even its most banal accretions and returning the structure to a vital role in public life.”

Italian architect Carlo Scarpa was born on 2 June 1906 in Venice. Son of a school teacher, Scarpa initially went to Technical High School and later got enrolled at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in 1919. He got his diploma in 1926 and right after that started teaching architectural drawing at the same academy.

Carlo Scarpa and Seiichi Shirai are two architects who lived and left many influential works in a same era. It is often said Scarpa was influenced by Japanese culture, and architecture. Also, Shirai is known to have been fascinated by historical Western architecture. The architecture of the two architects shows those influences certainly.
