It is very important for a manufacturer to know the unit price, unit cost, and fixed costs of each product they make. This information helps them to determine how many units they have to sell to break even or to make a profit. The following practice questions ask you to calculate the sales requirements both to make a profit and to break even.

Although Profit Practice launched in 2018, we have deep-rooted experience in dentistry, business management and generating new leads. In 2017, we became owners of an independent dental practice and quickly realised that we need to build a brand and put ourselves in front of patients who are actively seeking a new dentist or a certain high-value treatment.

About us - Profit Practice

The profit and loss account is a financial statement which represents the revenue that the business has received over a given period of time, and the corresponding expenses which have been paid. It also shows the profit that the business has made over a period of time (usually 12 months) and the uses to which the profits have been put.
