Dan Rice famously claimed that 'there are three forms of visual art: painting is art to look at, sculpture is art you walk around, and architecture is art you can walk through'. Girl Walking ironises this simplistic distinction; it is a 2D urban scene which reaches towards three-dimensionality, in which a female figure seems about to walk out of the composition.

Art and Architecture - What's the Connection? | Mall Galleries

There has been debate for decades about whether architecture is art – with some passionately arguing that architecture is a form of self-expression and therefore an art form, and others decrying the notion, viewing it as a form of egotism which leads to ‘starchitect’ designs being parachuted into place without reference to social and geographic context or appropriateness.
